NUMBER 31

CAMP ALL SET FOR M. N. GUARD

5,000 MICH. BOYS TO GET INTENSIVE TRAINING

Many Improvements Have Been Made in Camp

Activities at Camp Grayling have already commenced while troops are arriving daily. The first group to arrive was the service battery of the 119th field artillery that were to make preparations for the arrival of 119th artillery regiment which reached camp Thursday morning at 7:00 A. M.

Other organizations are to arrive daily beginning Friday, August 6, and continuing to next week Wednesday by which time it is expected that all organizations will be in camp.

Upon arrival in camp the infants will spend the first three days on the rifle range. Much enthusiasm is anticipated for the arrival of the famous 182nd field artillery of Detroit, that is due to reach here in the afternoon of next Monday. The last day's march will be from Roscommon where the troops will spend Sunday. This organization which is motorized, left Detroit Tuesday morning. It is under command of Col. Heinrich Pickett. The equipment cost more than two million dollars.

Among the features of the camp will be the annual competition for the Stewart medal, which is, each year, awarded to the individual soldier having the highest proficiency. This splendid feature has been provided in honor of the late Brig. Gen. Earle R. Stewart. The medal is of gold and contains the following inscriptions: "Highest Proficiency, M. N. G. Gen. Stewart, Brig. Gen. Michigan, 1926."

Above the medal is a scroll in which to engrave the name of the winner. It is a handsome jewel, befitting the high merits of he who is able to win it.

On Tuesday morning a detail of the 105th cavalry left Grayling with seven motor vehicles for Alma where they will join the squadron and return with same to Camp Grayling. They are due to arrive here in the afternoon of August 11th.

About a mile and a-half of new gravel road has been built in the camp this year, mostly in the artillery, cavalry and the medical regiment camps. Also two concrete magazine buildings for field artillery ammunition and one concrete range house for machine gun ammunition have been constructed.

The civilian mess hall operated by Peter Lovely has been moved from the beach to a place along the highway leading to division headquarters, across the railroad tracks.

Lt. Col. Leroy Pearson says that the camp is preparing for a large number of visitors this summer, and it is expected that 100 women and children, belonging to families of

SCENES AT FORMAL OPENING BAY CITY, JULY 20

By E. M. T. Service

Above are reproductions of photographs taken in connection with the dedication at Bay City, July 20, of the new log cabin offices of the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau and the East Michigan Tourist Association. The cabin is being constructed in the heart of Bay City's business district on ground leased to the two organizations by the Pere Marquette railroad at a nominal rental.

The design of the building and the decorations will be largely reminiscent of the pioneer period in Michigan history. The eastern half of the lower peninsula had world-wide fame for its lumber industry in the old days and the logs used in the building were harvested in Northeastern Michigan. A huge fireplace will be located in the building and

AuSable Works like a Man and Plays like a Boy

Performs Thousands of Tasks for People of Michigan and is Wonderful Outing Place as Well

By Arthur W. Stage
On-the-AuSable, July 1.—From Lake Huron up to Mio in the midst of the Bad Lands, the AuSable is a working river.

It gives its strength to the serious things of life. It lights cities and homes; it turns factory wheels; it helps the housekeeper in her cleaning; it clips the necks of the bobbed; it drills aching teeth; it fans the heat afflicted; it runs street cars and interurbans; it carries the busy and the luxurious up and down in elevators; it cooks and it sews; it entertains with the myriad stories of the movie screen; it broadcasts melody and song and spoken messages to countless radio listeners; it sets the type and powers the presses of the newspapers; it does a thousand tasks, big and little, in the service of mankind, to make life easier, more profitable and more pleasant.

The Au Sable is a cheerful worker. It sings, it sparkles with smiles, it roars in the fury of its might as it spins giant turbines, and goes rejoicing on its way. Like a well-balanced, happy man, it joys in its labor, it joys in its play, it joys in its rest, furnishing 55,000 horsepower to the people of Michigan through the Consumers Power Co. is just an incident in a busy, jolly life.

Three in One
Above Mio the AuSable is more like a care-free boy than like a grown-up with a big job to do. It gives itself to play, with here and there a little power chore furnishing just enough variety to give zest to its fun.

Rather, we should say the Au Sable west of Mio is like three care-free boys, for shortly above the backwaters of the dam it is three streams. The North Branch comes down from Lake Osego by way of Lovells, and there are those who swear it is the prettiest and most delightful trout stream in all the world. The South Branch comes meandering up from St. Helen lake through the Roscommon and Crawford cut-overs and there are those who contend that it is beyond compare for beauty and for sport.

The middle branch, rising in the highlands west of Osego lake—highlands that shed their waters in all directions toward the Straits of Mackinac, toward the Huron shore, toward northern and middle Lake Michigan, and toward Grand Traverse bay—flows south to Grayling and then wanders eastward to join the others. And there are those who claim it a stream of great charm and the choicest trout waters in the state.

Cots in Wilderness
There are "cots in the wilderness" along all three branches. There are shacks such as satisfy the desires of hunters and fishermen who want to "rough it" on their outings; there are palaces that astonish with their sumptuousness and their urban conveniences. And in between are cottages of varying sizes and designs, all aiming to provide a happy place of sojourn for these who find joy in periodic hermit-seclusion far from man and close to nature.

The holdings of these periodic dwellers in the wilds range from lots just large enough to hold a camp, to private preserves and ranches covering 300 to 30,000 acres or more.

There are great areas in Roscommon and Crawford counties where the lands cannot pay taxes and the state has been obliged to take them over. But along these streams, recreational longings have put such value on the abutting lands that they pay not only their own taxes but also make up for the revenue producing deficiencies of the unproductive acres.

On the South Branch is the new "inspirational retreat" of James Oliver Curwood, writer of romance of the rugged north. It is perched on a hill above the river, where in summer human contracts are rare and where in winter there must be the vast loneliness of the Arctic regions, so often used by Mr. Curwood as settings for his exciting tales of adventure.

On the North Branch, too, is the great ranch established years ago by Charles Downey of the Downey hotel at Lansing, and his partner, Mr. Wood of Detroit. Both the partners are now dead, but Mrs. Downey has the river property and Mrs. Wood has the ranch itself. Mrs. Wood has just built there a new mansion of studied design and furnishings.

On the north branch is the lodge of Wm. B. Mershon, sr., of Saginaw, set amidst a private preserve in which much has been done in reforestation, thousands of white and Norway pines have been planted under the direction of the veteran sportsman and nature lover.

From Mio to Grayling one may travel by state trunk line M-33 to Roscommon and thence by M-14, or one may go a short way on M-33 and then cut across on a sand trail. If one wants the "feel of the land" the will contain stones donated by 37 counties.

Representatives were present from every section of the territory between Mackinaw City and Detroit. Motion pictures were taken of the exercises.

In the larger picture the business and professional men present are seen resting on their canthooks, loaned by the Jennison Hardware Co. In the smaller picture a colloquy is taking place between Marius Hanson of Grayling; Herman London of Gaylord and Lewiston, president of the Development Bureau; Herman Butler of East Tawas and John Yull of Vanderbilt.

TRAP SHOOTERS OPEN SEASON

CARL MICKELSON INSTALLS RANGE AT LAKE

Shooting Wednesdays at 4:00; Sundays at 9:30

Through the efforts of Carl Mickelson of Mason, Mich., a trap shooting range has been instituted at Lake Argoshe where matches are to be held every Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 p. m. and Sunday mornings at 9:30.

The range is located south of M-93 across the railroad tracks a short distance west of the gravel road leading from M-93 to the Hanson cottages. It lies in a very pretty valley with foliaged highlands opposite the shooters. The very latest of automatic trap is used and the grounds are ideal for this sport. Mr. Mickelson says he has spent about $200 in installing the range and that it is open to all who care to enjoy trap shooting.

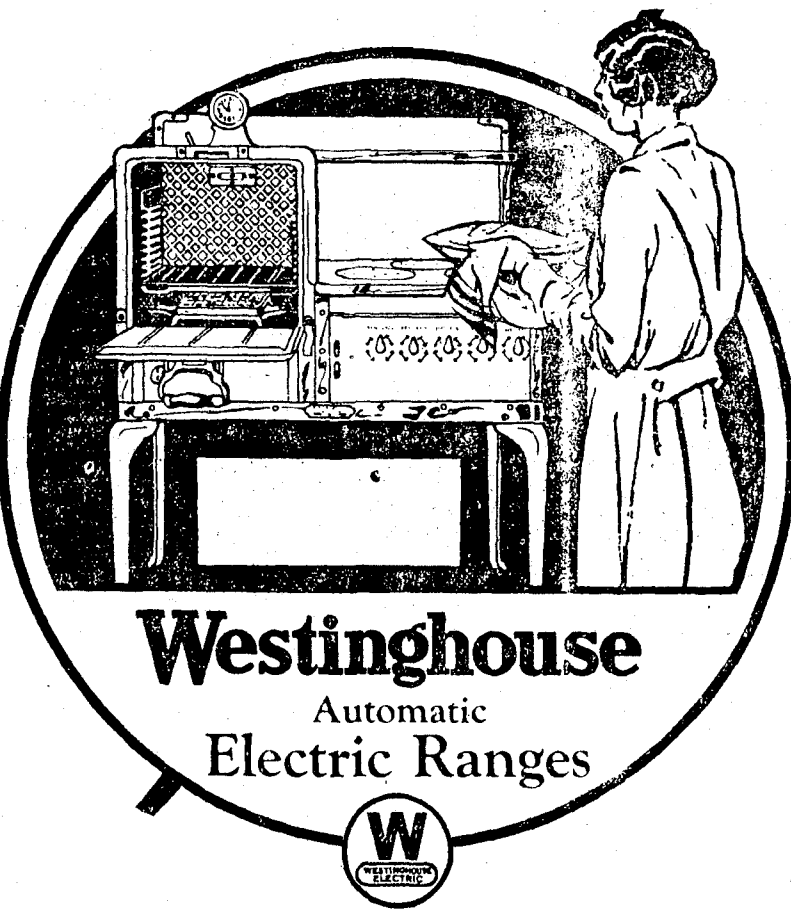

The initial shoot took place last Tuesday afternoon and considering that this was the first time many had had the opportunity of gun practice, some very good scores were made.

Four matches of 25 targets each were shot Tuesday afternoon when the following scores were made:

BE CAREFUL WITH FIRE

There is this about fire, when it is loose you cannot whistle it back again. Unless it is stayed by enormous toll of men, or halted by natural obstacles, or drenched by rain, it will burn until it no longer finds material for consumption.

Look at the ghosts of trees that rise from old scars on our mountains where forest fires have been. Nature will replant, but slowly. Men who are careless with fire put to naught her toll of a century.

Be careful with fire and then be more careful than ever. All this greenery, this coolness, this delightful beauty, may be blackened and made hideous by a single careless act.

The homes and industries of tomorrow may never be, if so much as a spark falls in this mid-summer tinder. Be careful with fire. You cannot whistle it back.

BIG TENT MEETINGS IN GRAYLING

At the corner of Chestnut and Ottawa streets the big tent is being erected and equipped for a short series of meetings. A strong corps of evangelistic workers are here and this will be an opportunity for the people of Grayling and the surrounding territory to hear a series of stirring evangelistic lectures.

Don't neglect to hear this unfolding of the Word of God; for this is the sole purpose of these meetings.

You will find the topic each evening to be both interesting and inspiring. Notice: The opening topic Sunday evening, August 8th will be an answer to the great question that is troubling the world, "If God is a just God, why has He not destroyed the Devil and brought an end to sin long ago?"

The following other topics will be considered during the first week: The Coming Crash of Nations, The Event of All Events, When will this Event take Place, World Conditions in the Light of Prophecy, The Devil's Vacation.

There will be an inspiring song service with special music each evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

COME.

At the Ruple farm east of town they found James Ellis with a still and a couple of gallons of liquor and in Gerrish township they found Steve Youngs with a still and two tubs of mash. Clarence Bennett of Gerrish township, Vernon Roudbaugh of Detroit and George Hecock of Flint were arrested for being intoxicated while Chas. Osterstrom was arrested for driving his car while intoxicated. Bailey and Ellis are being held for federal court at Bay City while no action has as yet been taken against Youngs.

In Justice McCredie's court, Bennett was given a suspended sentence pending his departure from the county; Roudbaugh was fined $15 and costs and Osterstrom fined $50 and costs and the loss of his driver's license for three months. Hecock is being held as a witness in federal court against other violators.—Roscommon Herald-News.

E. M. T. MEMBERS SHOULD INVESTIGATE CAREFULLY ADVERTISING PROJECTS

Itinerant "advertising" salesmen, with plausible stories and suave manners, continue to extract coin of the realm from the pockets of proprietors of resorts, hotels, restaurants, gas stations and other establishments catering to the needs of the tourist and resortor.

The smooth urbanity of these summer-time advertising tourists is manifestly too much for the proprietors of some establishments and enterprising schemes without investigation and without reason.

There are some publicity projects which are meretricious. Many are absolutely valueless to anyone but the promoter of the scheme.

E. M. T. Service has repeatedly stated that members of the East Michigan Tourist association and the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau may have the benefit of this service in an investigation and a report on any of the advertising projects, as a part of our general service, and without charge to the members.

Some members are taking advantage of this service, but many continue to spend money on advertising projects of doubtful ancestry and questionable merit.

E. M. T. Service, it is reiterated, is available to members without charge and without prejudice.

GEN. WILSON'S WIFE ACCIDENT VICTIM

Run Down by Speeding Auto at Waterford as Husband Inspects Artillery Camp

(From The Flint Daily Journal, Wednesday, August 4.)

Mrs. Guy M. Wilson, 49 years old, wife of 210 W. Seventh-ave., wife of the major general in command of the Michigan and Wisconsin National Guard troops, died in Hurley hospital at 2 a. m. today from injuries suffered when she was hit by a speeding automobile while walking across the Dixie highway near the camp of the 182nd Field Artillery of Detroit at Waterford, Mich., about 9:30 last night.

Leon Spencer, 29 years old, driver of the automobile, and John Montu, 31, his companion, Negroes, both of Port Wayne, Ind., who were detained by military authorities following the accident, were being questioned at the Oakland county jail in Pontiac this morning.

Driver Faces Homicide Charge

Clyde D. Underwood, prosecuting attorney of Oakland county, told the journal at noon that he expected to charge Spencer with negligent homicide and that Montu probably would be released. No inquest will be necessary, he said.

Arrangements for Mrs. Wilson's funeral were completed this morning. A service will be held Friday at 2:30 from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Archer, 403 Smith street, Rev. James McGee, pastor of the First Baptist church officiating. Burial will take place in Glenwood cemetery. As many officers of the National Guard as can be spared from duty at Camp Grayling are expected to attend the funeral in a body.

Visited Artillery Camp

With her husband and Lt. George A. Stracke of the 19th Field Artillery, and Mrs. Stracke, Mrs. Wilson visited Waterford last night for a visit to the camp of the 182nd Field Artillery which is marching from Detroit to Camp Grayling.

Gen. Wilson still was engaged in a tour of the camp with Lt. Col. G. V. N. Lathrop of Detroit when the accident occurred. Mrs. Wilson and Lieutenant and Mrs. Stracke, who had been at a refreshment stand near the camp just outside of Waterford, started across the highway to get into Gen. Wilson's automobile to wait for him.

The speeding automobile was seen approaching from the north and the three hastened and then Mrs. Wilson stepped across the path, evidently believing she could reach the other side before the automobile passed. She was struck by the left headlight of the car, thrown onto the fender and carried more than a hundred feet before the driver could stop. One of her tires was so deeply burned in stopping that it burst. Marks on the pavement where the tire burned showed the car slid 105 feet before it stopped.

Four negroes were in the automobile, a Hudson sedan, while behind them rode two others in a smaller car. Two of those who had been in the Hudson joined those in the other car and escaped during the confusion that followed the accident. According to Capt. Robert F. Glein of the 182nd Field Artillery, who held Spencer and Montu until the sheriff's officers arrived from Pontiac, the two denied knowing the others, declaring they were casual acquaintances they had picked up in Flint.

Brought to Hurley Hospital

Mrs. Wilson was placed in a military ambulance by Maj. T. G. Amos of the artillery medical corps and rushed to Hurley hospital. She never regained consciousness. She suffered a fractured skull, a compound fracture of the right leg and internal injuries. She died at 1:55 a. m.

Maj. Gen. Wilson rode with his wife in the ambulance to Flint and remained at her side until the end came. He then went to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Archer, 403 Smith street.

Gen. Wilson and his wife had been almost inseparable companions on his tours of military duties about the state. She had accompanied him to Camp Grayling each year since the World war that he had been in charge of the Michigan brigade of the National Guard. They were to have left today for Camp Grayling.

The Wilsons yesterday had delivered to them a new Buick automobile and Mrs. Wilson had her first ride in the new car on the trip to Waterford last night. She was elated over the possession of the new car which was to have been for her personal use while at Grayling, her friends said, and laughed and talked throughout the evening about the road times to which she was looking forward while at camp.

Grief-stricken and unable to discuss the accident even with close friends, Gen. Wilson early this morning abandoned plans for attending camp this year. He will be relieved by Brig. Gen. John H. Schouten of Grand Rapids, commander of the 63rd Infantry Brigade of Michigan.

Tragedy Thwarts Happy Plans

In the death of Mrs. Wilson and in the accident that so abruptly ended her life and cast gloom into the hearts of her friends, there is pathos unusual.

Today Lt. George A. Stracke, who with his wife accompanied Gen. and Mrs. Wilson to the camp, told of the last moments of Mrs. Wilson's life.

"We had stopped at the camp where the general was to make a call but finding that he would be occupied for several minutes the three of us, my wife, Mr. Wilson and myself, went to a little roadside refreshment stand for some ice cream. After the ice cream Mrs. Stracke and Mrs. Wilson joined in a little dance on the porch.

"Mrs. Wilson was so elated over her new car that she had obtained only a few hours earlier, before dinner in fact. It is a lovely car and she was as pleased as a child—laughing and talking about it. The general and she planned to leave for the camp at Grayling today and she was telling about their plans—how everything was packed, ready to start.

"Then she was planning a trip this fall with her father and mother to Florida and telling of the good times she expected to have. She had planned to drive the new car.

"As they finished their dance, Mrs.

Wilson suggested going to her car and sit while awaiting the general. She stepped into the road, the car struck her as she laughed. She never uttered another sound."

"Mother" Flint Guardsmen

Mrs. Wilson was loved by all who knew her, especially the Flint guardsmen, who served overseas and their families to whom she endeared herself by her many acts of kindnesses. Among the soldiers stationed at Sault Ste. Marie, and at Waco, Tex., where Mrs. Wilson was with her husband until his departure overseas, she was known as "mother" because of her interest in the welfare of the soldiers and by reason of the many tasks she performed for their comfort and the hundreds of things she did to make their path smoother.

While her husband was overseas Mrs. Wilson returned to Flint, and gave efficient service in the Red Cross, where she was chairman of the garment department to which office she was appointed by Mrs. John J. Carlton. It is said of her by those with whom she came in contact, "she worked early and late, never shirking her duty, continuing until her husband returned home."

She also ministered in a thousand and one ways to the families of soldiers, who were across the waters or stationed in camp. Whenever a soldier came home on a furlough, he never failed to inquire for "Mother" Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson was Miss Bertha Archer, an only child of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Archer. She was born in Fowlerville, Mich., June 25, 1877 and came to Flint with her parents when she was four years old. She was married to Guy M. Wilson February 13, 1901 in Flint. Mrs. Wilson was a member of the First Baptist church in which she had been an active worker, particularly in the Women's Union, for a number of years. She was a member of the Garland street Literary and Tuesday clubs, the King's Daughters society and of Flint Chapter No. 138, Order of Eastern Star. She leaves only her husband and her parents.—Flint Journal.

Mrs. Wilson had been coming to Grayling with her husband for many years and is very well known among some of our people by whom she was greatly loved for her sterling, womanly character. Many hearts are saddened in Grayling over her untimely death. The presence of the Guard officers and their wives is always a pleasant affair for it brings back so many warm friends made while the Guard was in camp. General and Mrs. Wilson are going to be sadly missed this year and for many years to come. In behalf of the citizens of Grayling the Avalanche takes the liberty of extending the deepest sympathy of the community to General Wilson.

HEALTH

DISEASES OF THE SKIN

By Dr. B. S. Herben

Some skins are born with diseases. Others acquire diseases, and some have diseases "thrust through them." A "mole and a birthmark" might serve as illustrations of the "diseases" with which a skin can be born. Acne, boils, erysipelas might represent the diseases which a skin may acquire. But by "diseases thrust through the skin" we should mean general systemic diseases, which have of "skin symptoms." Measles and scarlet fever are illustrations of the latter. Syphilis also might be mentioned as a type of this sort of disease, as it is a common cause of "skin trouble."

Disturbance of the skin may be caused by infection with bacteria or by parasites like ring worm, by the itch mite, or by the bites of insects. A circulatory disorder such as varicose veins may cause ulceration of the skin. Some people are susceptible to vegetable substances and easily get poison ivy irritations. Chemicals irritate some skins, drugs and even fruit juices or certain foods may harm other, peculiarly sensitive people.

Some skin diseases attack people of any age and others limit themselves to well defined groups. For instance, ringworm may attack those under puberty but seldom those above that age. Tuberculosis of the skin is not very common in people over twenty and that troublesome business with pimples and blackheads is generally "done with" after twenty-five. Various cures and cancer of the skin are of course found not in the young but in the older people. Sex, race, and occupation also play their part in causing skin diseases.

Any skin disease, even so simple as one as acne, or the one manifested by excessive perspiration, if completely curable, should be treated properly and without delay. Often an obstinate chronic skin condition may be avoided by early correct treatment by a physician whose specialty is skin disease.

Proper living conditions with good food, fresh air, and daily bathing with non-irritating, daily complete elimination of waste matter and all these well known "matters of hygiene" are essential to the general health; and good general health is necessary if one would keep a healthy skin or obtain one.

As to "cosmetics," it should be said that the best one is made of warm water, soap and elbow grease, followed by plain cold water. Range of reliable variety, used in moderation is not harmful to the skin although it may be hurtful to an artistic eye. Cold cream for an excessively dry skin is not harmful but useful in preventing roughness and "scaling." Too greasy a skin needs plenty of soap and water. The hair should be kept clean.

Special instructions for the care of the skin should be given by one's own doctor who knows all the conditions under which the individual lives and against which he or she must fight. Skin diseases should not be treated by "beauty specialists" but by the physician.

BABY'S FOOD AND HOT WEATHER

August, the month of hot days and hot nights is upon us, the month when mothers of bottle-fed babies have to be more than ever on guard. It is during August especially that attacks of diarrhea are likely to occur. Diarrhea if allowed to run on may be very serious. Bottle-fed babies, according to Hygeia, the health magazine of the American Medical Association, are more susceptible to diarrhea than breast

Everybody Cordially Invited

In 1925 it was $110,034,712.

The new log cabin office building of the East Michigan Tourist association and the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau at Bay City, occupying a complete municipal park, the smallest in the world probably, was dedicated July 30. Each of the 37 counties in the district will contribute a huge slab of stone native to its soil for the "great" fireplace which will be placed opposite the entrance.

Contractors on the excavating job for the great Bay Pontiac Motor company plant at Fenton have begun the moving of dirt with the steam shovel. By the end of the week scores of the big machines will be engaged in removing the 350,000 yards of dirt to make way for the foundations and basement. The plant will cost several million dollars.

When William Vincent, of Tekonsha village, died more than three years ago, his relatives did not know that he left any property or value. His family knew he had some land near St. Andrew's Bay, Florida, where he had planned to plant an orange grove, but which falling health prevented him. Advice from Florida now indicates that the property there is very valuable. Relatives have just discovered in a Coldwater safety deposit box in a Coldwater bank, the key to which had been lost.

Michigan Happenings

Quo warranto proceedings against the Michigan Bell Telephone company, started by Attorney General Andrew Dougherty in an effort to break what he terms an illegal combine of this concern with the American Telephone and Telegraph company, has been refiled in the state supreme court. The case recently was thrown out of the Detroit federal court. All charges that the company is violating the Sherman anti-trust law have been withdrawn, leaving the issues confined strictly to the Michigan anti-trust laws.

For every dollar invested in the liquor traffic, there is $100 invested in the dope traffic. Leon F. Miner, Shiawassee County prosecutor, told the Kewanee Club at Owosso. He added that while there is much furore about liquor, it is a pigmy compared with the dope traffic. The prosecutor said that recently a package of dope was found under a culvert near an Owosso school, indicating, he said, that peddlers might be trying to induce school children to take it. This, he said, is a favorite method of obtaining dope revenue.

Extensive preparations are being made by the Lenawee County Rural Carriers association for the entertainment of the state convention to be held at Adrian July 27 to 30, inclusive. It is expected that between 300 and 400 delegates will be in attendance, the meetings being held in Memorial hall at the fair grounds. Wednesday evening a banquet and program will be given and the attendance will include state officials, a representative of the federal post-office department, and Representative Earl V. Michener.

Chief of Police Charles Phelps, of Jackson, is thinking of opening a night school for potential auto drivers following an experience with an applicant for a driver's license. In testing the applicant, the chief wrote on a piece of paper, "no left turn," and asked the applicant to read it. "It says 'Stop,'" was the answer. Then the chief wrote, "Keep to the right." "Go" was the interpretation of the would-be driver. He failed to get the license.

Permanent, modern warehouse and docks are seen as a necessity for Ludington as a result of continuous growth in freight shipments through there and via seven car ferries to Milwaukee, Manitowoc and Kewau-naw. W. H. Wallace, of Saginaw, superintendent of the Toledo-Ludington division, pointed to the continued increase in freight shipments through Ludington. He said the Ludington terminal is becoming obsolete.

A herd of elk and moose will be placed on the Triangle Ranch, 16 miles north of Iron River by the State Department of Conservation. John Baird, director, promised during a visit to that city. The herd will be protected for several years, but later it will be turned loose in adjacent forests and hunters will be allowed to shoot them at certain seasons of the year.

Due to the unusual hot weather, lake resorts near Kalamazoo that had suffered from a slump in business at the beginning of the summer are now enjoying a decidedly increased patronage. While the wheat crop is being harvested, the other crops, particularly corn, potatoes and beans, need rain badly. Severe damage will result if relief from the drought does not come soon.

Paul Buckley, assistant secretary of the University of Michigan since 1920, has been appointed general manager of the Michigan Union, all-campus men's club, succeeding Homer Heath, who resigned after 19 years as head of the institution to accept a position with the Allerton Club residences of New York. Mr. Buckley will assume office October 1.

Arrangements are virtually completed for the state convention of the Michigan Sheet Metal and Roofing association, which will be held at Coldwater July 30 and 31. Headquarters for the gathering will be Cahill's pavilion, Coldwater lake. More than 500 delegates are expected to attend.

Attempts to drive a bug out of the car while driving on Chicago road west of Sturgis resulted in a broken shoulder for Mrs. E. C. Thompson, of Mishawaka, Ind., and minor injuries for her husband. The car, driven by the husband, lurched into a ditch, turned turtle, and was badly wrecked.

A village or city may issue as many mortgage bonds as needed for a public utility, the state supreme court held recently, in declaring unconstitutional part of a law passed by the 1926 legislature which limits the bonded indebtedness of a village for the construction of a utility.

Election campaign posters and stickers must not be displayed upon county-owned property, the finance committee of the board of supervisors of Grand Rapids has ruled.

J. A. Hannah and E. G. Card, poultry experts at Michigan State College, will represent the college at the annual conference of the International Baby Chick Association at West Baden, Ind., Aug. 3 to 6. They also will attend a one-day convention called by the United States Department of Agriculture for Aug. 2, to consider accreditation between 35 and 40 automobile loads of Michigan poultry raisers mostly members of the Michigan Poultry Improvement Association, are scheduled to make the trip to West Baden.

The Anchor Concrete company, which removed its plant to Adrian from Rapid City, Ia., four years ago, has decided now to bring the general offices there from Columbus, Ohio. A two-story office building now under construction will be completed about October 1. The rapidly increasing business of the company, which manufactures concrete machinery, has made necessary the erection of another factory building, which it is expected will be ready for use in 30 days. About 120 men are employed at the present time.

Increasing sentiment against prohibition prompted a number of Kalamazoo business men to organize officially a national organization to fight for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Although the association—known as the National Liberty league—will eventually be country-wide in scope, its organizers plan to work at present in the middle west, co-operating with the National Association Against Prohibition, which is carrying on the fight in the east.

Another link in the Michigan Grand Boulevard—a planned highway which will be a unique traffic way—was assured when the Isosco County Road Commission was instructed to obtain the right-of-way between East Tawas and the Alcona County line. The Michigan Grand Boulevard will start at Toledo and girdle the shore of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan, ending at Chicago. The boulevard, when completed, will be built of concrete and will be 40 feet in width.

Alice Lipp, 14 years old, of Riga, Lenawee county, is the health champion of 30 Michigan counties. Miss Lipp won this distinction when she was adjudged the most physically perfect of the county champions who competed at the annual Boys' and Girls' club week at the Michigan State College. She will compete for the State championship at the Michigan State Fair in Detroit in September. Miss Lipp weighs 115 pounds. She is 61 1/2 inches tall.

Frederick E. King, of Marshall, who is retiring as superintendent of schools after 47 years' service, says he believes he can beat any superintendent in Michigan playing golf or sawing wood. He declined re-election here for three years and will be succeeded by E. H. Vandenberg of Bad Axe. King plans to write text books and give educational talks. He was superintendent at Marshall for 7 years and at Escanaba 9 years and for 31 years in Iowa.

Death, which claimed Prof. Edward D. Campbell, noted blind professor of the University of Michigan, less than a year ago, has entered the family circle again to take Mrs. Campbell. The unexpected death occurred at Hartford, Conn., where Mrs. Campbell was visiting a daughter. Mrs. Campbell was the constant companion and in many ways the eyes of Prof. Campbell in his years of work following loss of sight in an accident.

Michigan was the only state of the five principal ones in the Middle West to show an increase in building construction volume for the six months of 1926 as against the same period a year ago, according to statistics compiled by S. W. Straus & Co., of Chicago, which were made public recently. The building volume for the larger Michigan cities, the compilation shows, was $119,710,571.

KELLY TENT SHOWS COMING

Kelly Bros. Stock Co. will pay their annual visit to Grayling, commencing Monday, August 9. Altho the old slogan of "bigger and better than ever" has been used since amusement began, the term will apply to this season's Kelly show. A splendid line of performers have been engaged, headed by the noted comedian, Mr. Tim Lester, and the biggest line of royalty plays ever assembled under canvas theater has been purchased, with vaudeville between acts that are different, all go to make one of the strongest shows that Mr. Kelly has ever carried. The opening play "Stepping on the Gas" is a story of our own Michigan metropolis of Detroit and is chuck full of thrills, heart interest, handsome gowns, and above all screaming comedy. Other big feature plays are "Pollyanna" the famous book in dramatic form made famous by Mary Pickford in pictures, and the big New York success "Up in Mabel's Room," a mile a minute farce comedy. The big tent will be pitched in the usual location and ladies will be admitted free Monday night, when accompanied by one paid adult ticket.—Adv.

RESULTS FROM EDUCATION

The people are demanding better practical results for the money invested in higher education, or a smaller investment.

The broad charge is made in a Middle West state that the state university is not enabling men to get a practical equipment on which to earn a living, in short there is too much theory.

Too many young men with four years' college training find they have taken a blind jump and landed on their faces.

There is little doubt about the greater need of a curriculum better suited to enable students to face the after-college period of their lives.

AU SABLE WORKS LIKE A MAN PLAYS LIKE A BOY

sand trail offers the way to go. Out of Mio and as far as Luzerne there is farming country and a gravel road. Here there are broad views of the Au Sable valley. The river is hedged by forested hills. On the hills are many shades of green, the medium green of the hardwoods, the light green of the popple, and the dark green of the pines. How many shades of green are there? A color expert would find here a splendid field of research on that question.

Trunk line 33 skirts the Big Creek state forest, and the sand trail leading to Mio plunges into it. State forest or no state forest, the country is much the same all the way to Grayling—thickets of Jack pine, clumps of tall, straight Norways, cedars and balsams in the low places, popple, scrub oak, baby maple, on the plains and under the big pines.

The road dips down a sharp hill and crosses the south branch of the Au Sable. The stream comes out from a tangle of spruces, cedars, balsams, pines and other growth; its clear waters gurgle under the bridge; they sweep in around another wild-wood bend beyond. No forest-stream homes are in sight, but an exploration along the bank will disclose them. That stream prevents rapid enticement. No wonder it draws its lovers from the near and far.

The road rises again above the bridge and there are more miles of second growth country, patches of pine, wild flowers, strawberries, and so on into Grayling. On M-14, the middle branch of the Au Sable, it comes as it comes gurgling from doing a little chore at the Sailing-Hanson sawmill, one of the last big mills left in the lower peninsula. Again it is passed on the road to the Hanson military reservation on Margrethe lake.

Road Log

Mio to Luzerne, about eight miles. M-33, gravel.
Luzerne to Grayling, about 30 miles, sand trail. Fair.
Mio to Roscommon, about 27 miles. M-33—gravel and unimproved.
Roscommon to Grayling, M-14, 17 miles. Gravel.
Going by the sand trail saves about six miles in distance, but effects no saving in time, as the sand trail must be traveled much slower than the gravel.

Almost Vanished

Grayling takes its name from the famous game fish which once populated the Au Sable. Most of the streams of the northern part of the lower peninsula. Once the grayling were so numerous that O. W. Hanson, manager of the Hanson interests at Grayling, tells of catches of 50 and 60 in a day. The shy, swift, elusive fish was gamey too, and put up a tremendous battle before it would let itself be brought to net.

Now the grayling is gone from the streams. It is not quite extinct, as it is noted forms contemporary, the passenger pigeon, but it is practically so. In the Grayling trout hatchery are treasured 14 live graylings. They hide even in the ponds, but quiet, patient watching will afford glimpses of them darting from the cover of another.

Curious they are now—curious of a great day in Michigan fishing? What became of the grayling? Were they fished out? Were they decimated by disease? Were they warred upon and eaten by alien fish planted in Michigan streams, including the rainbow and the German brown trout?

No one has yet given a conclusive answer. But it is a fact that the grayling are gone and that the trout in the AuSable and its neighboring streams are all the descendants of the now naturalized aliens.

—Bay City Times Tribune.
